

Pioneers

This issue of the Journal is dedicated to the following pioneers who have been constant source of inspiration.

- A nation that is afraid to let its people judge the truth and falsehood in an open market is a nation that is afraid of its people.

- John F. Kennedy

- Being unwanted, unloved, uncared for, forgotten by everybody, I think that is a much greater hunger, a much greater poverty than the person who has nothing to eat.

- Mother Teresa

- All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players: they have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his time plays many parts, his acts being seven ages.

- William Shakespeare

- One's destination is never a place, but a new way of seeing things.

- Henry Miller

- Take only memories, leave only footprints.

- T.S. Eliot

- Anybody can become angry – that is easy, but to be angry with the right person and to the right degree and at the right time and for the right purpose, and in the right way – that is not within everybody's power and is not easy.

- Aristotle

- When you have solved all the mysteries of life, you long for death, for it is but another mystery of life.

- Khalil Gibran

- The true mystery of the world is the visible, not the invisible.

- Oscar Wilde

- When I was young, I said to God, "God, tell me the mystery of the universe." But God answered, "Knowledge is for me alone." So I said, "God, tell me the mystery of the peanut." Then God said, "Well, George, that's more nearly your size."

- George W Carver
